“Made in Tennessee” Exhibition in Granville through November 1

The public now has an opportunity to visit “Made in Tennessee: Manufacturing Milestones,” an exhibit at the Granville Museum through November 1, 2015. It illustrates the transformation of Tennessee manufacturing over the past 254 years. Funded in part by a $50,000 Alcoa Foundation grant, given in honor of Alcoa Tennessee Operations 100th anniversary celebration, the exhibit is divided into seven time periods. The exhibit chronicles how Tennesseans made the progression from agriculture to industry and the history of manufacturing across the state. The goal of the exhibition and educational curriculum is to raise awareness of manufacturing’s role in America, and more specifically Tennessee, through artifacts, print materials and photographs that tell stories highlighting the emergence of different industries from 1760 to now and into the future, which includes a strong outlook for the automotive industry in Tennessee with Alcoa Inc., Volkswagen and Knoxville Local Motors 3D printing.

Take some time this summer and follow the many driving trails through Tennessee’s beautiful Upper Cumberland and discover a region of unsurpassed natural beauty, rich history, and unparalleled cultural attractions.

We have 5 Discover Tennessee Trails crisscrossing our region
Promised Land, Ring of Fire, Top Secret, Pie in the Sky and Jack Trails

Three lakes – Center Hill, Cordell Hull, and Dale Hollow – are ideal natural settings for boating and other exciting water sports. Fishing along the Caney Fork, Cumberland, and Obed Rivers, can be counted to always be at its best.

Outdoor activities are plentiful; from camping, hiking, or horseback riding in the region’s vast woodlands, to canoeing or kayaking its rivers.

Check out www.uppercumberland.org with lots of ideas to make this a perfect summer. Come up to “Staycation Expo” at Fairfield Glade on June 06 and find Upper Cumberland attractions represented.

Have a wonderful Month of June!
